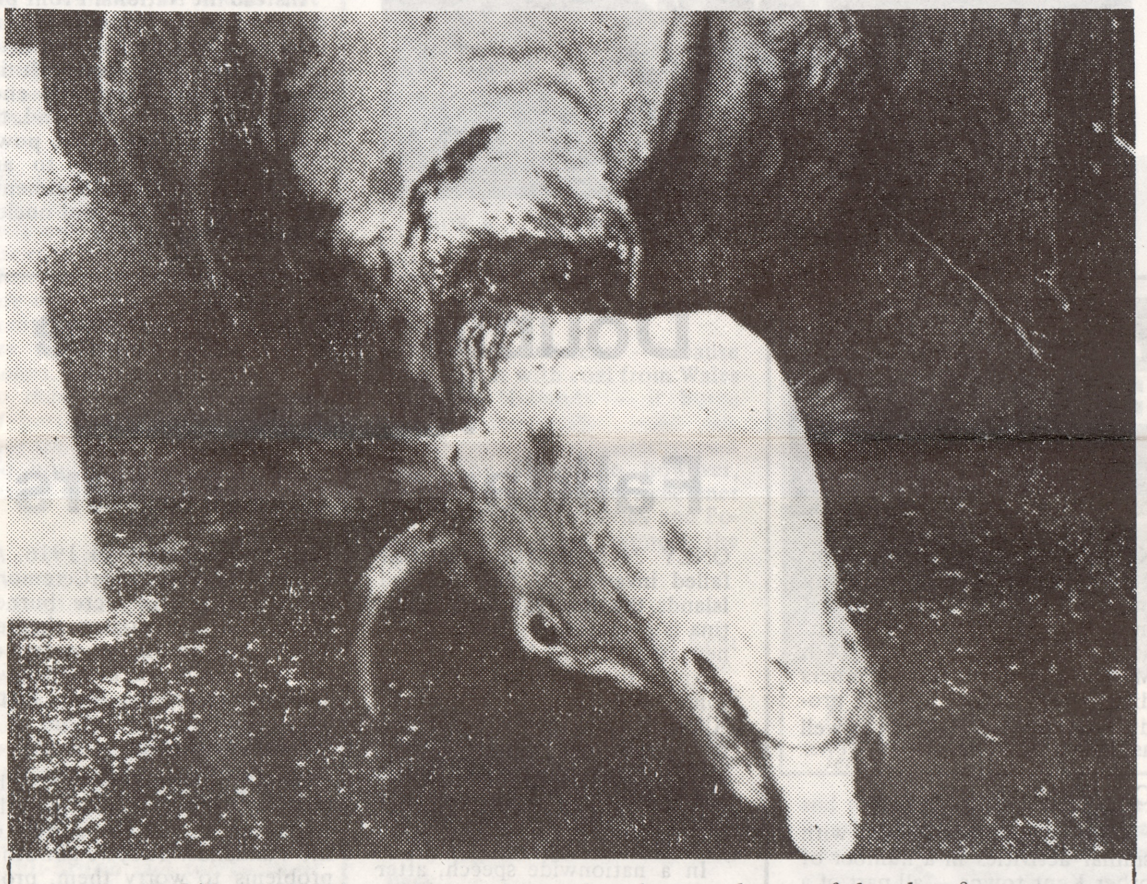
Front Supports the Campaign for Animal Welfare.

STOP THIS EVIL!

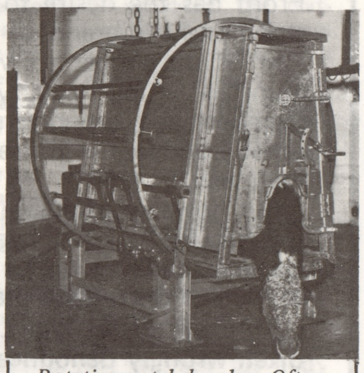


What type of people can demand such a cruel way of slaughter?

Oppose Ritual Slaughter!

IN THE UNITED KINGDOM the Slaughter of Animals Act first introduced in 1933, now incorporated in the Slaughter-houses Act (1974), requires that all animals should be stunned before they are slaughtered. However, the legislation also includes a clause that requires the local authority to allow the Muslim and Jewish methods of ritual slaughter (which do not involve pre-slaughter stunning) to take place for the purpose of providing meat for these ethnic communities.

When, for example, cows are ritually slaughtered, the animals are led individually into a rotating metal chamber which will turn them upside down. This is a condition of the ritual. It is not uncommon for broken limbs to result at this stage as the animal struggles; the casualty has then to be removed and slaughtered elsewhere for the Christian trade, being considered unfit for the Jewish or Muslim Community.



Rotating metal chamber. Often limbs are broken at this stage.

If the animal does reach the upside down state without injury then it has its throat cut by the ritual knife. Blood sprays out everywhere as the major blood vessel in its neck is severed. The unfortunate animal is fully conscious for up to two minutes while its blood drains away.

SEVERED

Pain is a subjective experience, it is impossible to measure the pain felt by the animal as it is slaughtered. The two most useful behaviour patterns that indicate an animal is suffering pain are obstructed in this form of slaughter. The first, vocalisation, cannot take place because at the time the major blood vessel is severed so is the trachea and hence no noise is possible. The second, is the 'escape reflex', which cannot be observed because the restrictive nature of the slaughter chamber does not allow any movement.

It is an anatomical and physiological fact that the large amount of tissues that are cut during the slaughter process will result in damage to a very large number of sensory (pain) nerve endings. This damage will cause pain impulses to travel along the nerves to the central nervous system. It follows that the pain felt by the animal doesn't bear thinking about.

ACCUSATIONS

On April 4th Parliament debated a 'Ten minute Rule Bill' introduced by Tory MP Richard Page calling for 'animals to be electrically stunned before being slaughtered'. In a heated debate, with accusations of racism to the fore, the bill was defeated by 155 votes to 54. Its main opponent was Liberal MP for Liverpool Mossley Hill, Mr. David Alton, who naively claimed that "ritual slaughter resulted in the immediate loss of consciousness for the animal and therefore ruled out any element of cruelty".

Describing Mr. Alton as 'naive' is giving him the benefit of the doubt. It is possible that he, like many other MP's present that day, were there to protect the interests of a growing number of their constituents. An MP of a constituency with a large immigrant community, be it Muslim or Jewish, would not be its MP for long if he or she supported such a bill.

PROHIBITED

The National Front believes that Ritual Slaughter should be prohibited in Britain as it is in countries like Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and Austria.

Our opponents will, no doubt, accuse us of having a 'racist motive' for calling for an end to this barbaric method of slaughter. This is not the case and is borne out by the fact that at the 1983 Annual Conference in London, National Front delegates voted to 'ban all animal experiments for the purpose of cosmetics', as well as voting to 'ban all pursuit blood sports' and call for a ban on Ritual Slaughter.

Unlike Britain's other political parties the National Front does not rely on the voting support of immigrant communities. It is for this reason that the National Front is the only political party that can take the lead in the campaign against Ritual Slaughter without fear of being compromised. Animal Lovers of Britain, join our campaign!

THE BATTLE FOR BRADFORD'S SCHOOLS

COUNCIL LOOK, COUNCIL listen, council obey". That was the chant of a demonstration by thousands of Asians who had gathered to lobby councillors before a debate on the supply of ritually slaughtered Halal meat to Muslims in Bradford's schools.

Bradford Council duly obeyed, and to cries of shame from animal welfare and National Front supporters in the public gallery, the council voted to continue the supply.

CONCERN

Controversy over Halal meat has brought to a head the growing concern of Bradford's Headteachers over interference in the running of the city's schools by the Conservative controlled city council, a council who are totally subservient to the vociferous Asian community.

Amongst new school procedures demanded by the council has been the instituting of mother tongue teaching, a revised religious education syllabus, the banning of morning assemblies and, in accordance with the teaching of the Koran, the separation of sexes for physical education. The council has also not only insisted on Halal meat being on school menus but that its cooking in the school canteen be supervised by Imams from the local Pakistani community.

Mr. Ray Honeyford, headmaster of Drummon Middle School, is the leading critic of the council's interference and believes that "The race relations lobby is so powerful within the state education service that decent people are not only afraid of voicing certain thoughts, they are even uncertain of their rights to think such thoughts".

WE WANT
HALAL
WO
AG

Bradford's Asians demanding Halal meat for the city's schools. 'Council look, council listen, council obey'.

Mr. Honeyford has been accused of being a racist for his remarks, and duly ordered to attend a "Racism Awareness Workshop" along with other headteachers from Bradford's 311 schools. However many of the teachers are not prepared, after 30 years service in the schools, to be treated in this way and 45 are either leaving or opting for early retirement.

BEHIND

It is the Muslim Parents' Association that is the guiding force behind the council's interference in Bradford's schools. This association, described by one councillor, as "the most powerful body of people in Bradford," last year actually started taking over some of the city's schools and running them themselves.

The demands of the Moslem Parents' Association will be never-ending unless someone is prepared to stand up to them. The National Front urges teachers like Mr. Honeyford not to leave or opt for early retirement, but to stay and fight for the rights of the British schoolchildren in Bradford, rights which are rapidly being eroded day by day and which, in the not too distant future, will disappear unless a stand is made.

EDITORIAL

No. 56 May 1984

No Maggie, No!

SINCE 1964 THE Conservative Party has been manipulating local government to suit themselves by drawing and redrawing councils and county boundaries.

In 1972 Edward Heath destroyed hundreds of smaller local councils and imposed enormous, bureaucratic and wasteful organisations in their place. It was Mr. Heath also who obliterated the familar names of many historic counties, creating instead monstrosities like Humberside and Avon.

CHANGING THE RULES

In 1982 Mrs Thatcher decided to change the boundaries of 50 marginal constituencies to make it impossible for a Labour victory at the forthcoming election, even if the British people had desired it. The natural progression from changing the rules to get the election result you want is of course to do away with the elections altogether, a move that Mrs Thatcher and her cabinet have taken a mere 18 months to realise and which they are now busy pushing through parliament.

While one can snigger at the cheek of the Tories changing the rules of the game to suit themselves while they are in power, the latest plan to do away with the GLC elections altogether next year is a fundamental threat to the constitution of Britain. Their intended abolition of the GLC itself is a total abuse of governmental power by suppressing and destroying a democratically-elected element of that constitution.

PARTICULARLY OFFENSIVE

More than any other political party, the National Front has the desire to see the removal of Mr. Livingstone and his brand of politics from running London. The GLC's almost daily pampering of immigrant communities is particularly offensive to National Front members and supporters in the capital as well as many other Londoners who see little help or guidance coming their way.

But however offensive, Mr. Livingstone and his ruling Labour Party have been voted in by the people of London, and it's up to the people of London to vote to remove them from that office.

National Front News, the voice piece of a party so often wrongly denounced and unjustly accused of being anti-democratic, urges the Government to step back from taking that dangerous road of implementing dictatorial powers. To do so will create a precedent. A precedent that would be eagerly copied by future governments, governments whose responsibility might not be to Britain and the British people but to Moscow and the doctrine of Marxism.

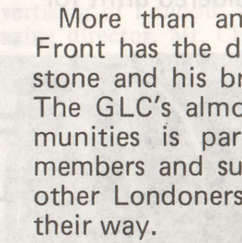
Enoch Exposes Ulster Sell-Out

JAMES PRIOR, and the Northern Ireland Office are so desperate to bring about a united Ireland that they were willing to offer knighthoods and bribes to those who could serve their 'treacherous' purpose.

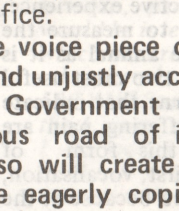


Enoch Powell. "Knighthoods and bribes".

That's what Enoch Powell told a meeting of supporters in Downpatrick last month. He revealed that while some Ulster Unionists were resisting Government pressure, others were willing to sell the province out "... for a CBE or something much better later on".

DUBLIN

Mr. Powell accused the Northern Ireland Office of priming a new Conservative MP, Mr. Timothy Yeo, to tell the commons that the people in Britain would allow Dublin a greater say in the affairs of the North if it improved security in return.



James Prior. "vain and stupid".

Mr. Powell said that not even Mr. Prior — "vain and stupid though he may be" — believed that this formula would appease terrorists or reassure Ulster.

NUCLEAR POWER IS NOT YET SAFE

NF urges the development of non-polluting energy sources

ANOTHER ACCIDENT AT Windscale, the Cumbrian nuclear power station, has raised fresh questions about the safety of nuclear power.

The incident, so far officially unreported, took place during the end of January in building B30, where irradiated nuclear fuel is removed from its canisters ready for reprocessing.

Workers at Windscale — which has been renamed Sellafield — say that plutonium-contaminated sludge was stirred up, causing a build-up of this highly dangerous element in the air.

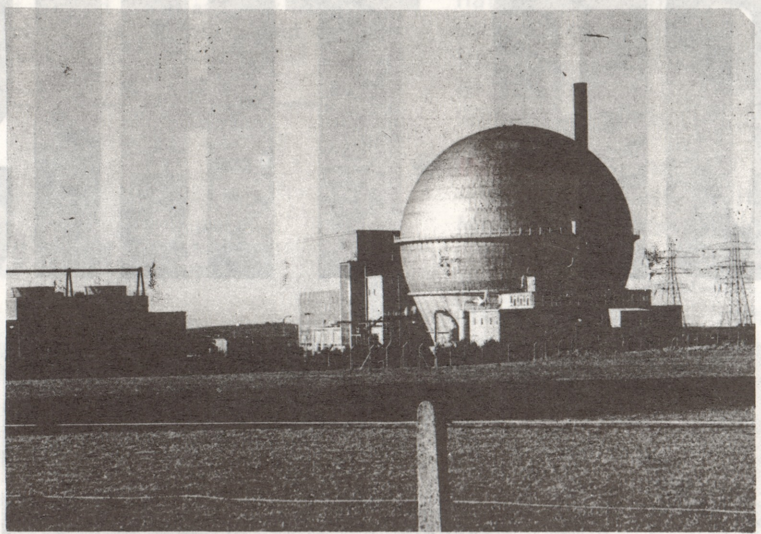
Radiation alarms went off but due to the lack of proper detection monitors, the dangerous level of plutonium in the air was not fully realised. As a result, men were working for too long in plutonium-contaminated air.

CONTAMINATED

This is the second accident in three months. In November, 1983, a worker was seriously contaminated whilst trying to clear a blockage in building B30.

It was from the same accident that the beaches of Cumbria were contaminated after an accidental discharge of radio-active waste into the sea. Items of contaminated debris, some of it a thousand times above normal levels, were washed ashore. Even now, six months later, pieces of tar-like radioactive material are still coming ashore along a 15 mile stretch of the coastline near the nuclear plant.

Mr. William Waldergrave, junior Environment Minister, who toured Windscale/Sellafield last week, said he was unable to say when the contaminated beaches would be declared safe.



The Windscale/Sellafield nuclear energy complex — a grim health hazard.

RELIABLE

In the light of the above incidents, the National Front reasserts its conviction that no reliable evidence has been produced to show that nuclear power is safe. Therefore we must oppose the building of nuclear power stations until such evidence is available.

Instead the National Front proposes that an immediate and massive programme be instituted to develop new, non-polluting energy sources. Renewable energy sources (such as the wind, the waves and hydro-electric power stations) are the key to any future Nationalist environmental and energy policy — not nuclear power!

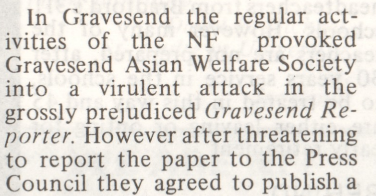
Activities Explosion in Kent

KENT NATIONAL Front members have been blazing their way into the headlines over the last month with a whole series of activities. On Saturday 24th March about 15 NF members distributed 2000 locally produced anti-I.R.A. leaflets as well as selling National Front News.

CAMPAIGN

This was followed up with similar activities in a number of other Kent towns — all part of a regional anti-I.R.A. campaign. A widespread recruitment campaign in Tonbridge, Tunbridge Wells and Sevenoaks also elicited a major article in a local paper.

In Gravesend the regular activities of the NF provoked Gravesend Asian Welfare Society into a virulent attack in the grossly prejudiced Gravesend Reporter. However after threatening to report the paper to the Press Council they agreed to publish a long letter from Kent NF Regional Organiser Paul Johnson which clearly laid the blame for previous violence in Gravesend in the hands of the local Asians.



PRESS COVERAGE

The announcement that Kent region of the National Front had opened an office again attracted considerable press coverage. Plans for the next stage of their recruitment campaign includes a regional march in Kent. As a result of this level of activity Kent is becoming one of the fastest growing areas for National Front support in the country.

Double headache for the Falkland Islanders

ONLY 24 MONTHS after their failed invasion of the Falkland Islands, the new regime in Argentina is preparing its people for a new assult on the Islands.

An actual invasion may be some way off but President Alfonsin is making great attempts to restore the morale of his people after their crushing defeat and to mentally prepare them for the 'continued struggle for the 'Malvinas'.

In a nationwide speech, after unveiling a monument bearing the words "Glory and Honour to those who fell on the Malvinas", the President said,

"The death of Argentina's soldiers was not in vain. The goal of our soldiers was, is, and always will be that of all generations of Argentines: The definite recovery of the Malvinas, the South Georgias and the South Sandwich Islands".

His speech had its desired effect. Only hours later a War Veterans' Rally turned into a riot and 16 people were arrested as the mob tried to burn down Buenos Aires' Little Ben, a minature statue of the famous clock donated to Argentina by its British Community in 1916. At another Remembrance Ceremony Union Jack flags were burned and anti-British slogans chanted while that evening a statue of George Canning was hacked down and thrown in the River Plate.

IMMIGRATION

Totally unconcerned by the warlike behaviour across the water are the British people of the Falklands. They've got other problems to worry them, problems not unlike our own.

A row is brewing over the planned immigration of several Vietnamese families. So intense has the matter become in the islands that the Sheep Owners' Association has sent a circular to all its members condemning the move by the administration, causing the Chairman of the Immigration Committee to threaten to resign.

"We simply don't want Vietnamese in the Falklands", said Mr. Sidney Miller, a member of the Sheep Owners' Association. "Especially when we know that there are several hundred Britishers wanting to emigrate to the Falklands.

'Defence Committee' foils bid for free speech

BOYS AT Bury Grammer School were denied the opportunity of hearing a spokesman from the National Front explaining the policies of the party because of outside interference from a Jewish pressure group.

The school's 'Topics Group' had wanted to invite the NF speaker to address the school's sixth formers, but the invitation was dropped after pressure was exerted on the headmaster Mr. Robson. He was inundated by telephone calls from the Jewish 'Rep Council Defence Committee' and when they failed to get satisfaction, a delegation arrived at the school headed by Hymie Wagner and Henry Guterman, two officials of the committee. After a lengthy and sometimes heated meeting with the headmaster, it was a delighted Hymie Wagner who emerged to tell a reporter from the Jewish Telegraph that the "Rep Council was pleased to announce that the situation was now resolved".

FREE SPEECH

Later that day a rather subdued headmaster told local reporters that no invitation would be issued to the National Front. "I had hoped to maintain the right of free speech for all parties. Now I just want to forget the whole affair".

NF News Diary

"FRONT LINE WARFARE" screamed the headline on the back page of the Daily Mirror in an attempt to associate the National Front with soccer violence in Europe.

Tottenham Hotspur manager Keith Burtenshaw gave credence to the headline by announcing in the paper that "There are theories that the National Front are involved".

Keith Burtenshaw victim of the curse of NF News.

People who tell lies, fabricate and unjustly denigrate the National Front are, of course, subject to the 'Curse of National Front News'. Two weeks after Burtenshaw's remarks he found out that next year he would be out of a job and Tottenham would be employing a new manager . . . so don't say you haven't been warned.

NOW I'VE always had difficulty in identifying the different Asian immigrant groups resident, at present, in Britain.

However identification is to be made much easier in the not too distant future thanks to a ruling from Pakistan's top board of scholars. They have decreed that "To shave one's beard is a sin, and persistently doing so is a major sin".

So now we know, the hairy ones are the Pakis.

MR FRANK Abel, the headmaster of a comprehensive school in Sheffield has banned the National Anthem from being played at the end of the school concert.

He has ignored a petition from both pupils and parents, and then made matters worse by, at a recent school visit to the theatre, remaining seated while the anthem was played.

Now why Mr. Abel should be so anti-British and anti-patriotic is a mystery, unless. . . . . now Abel, that has a biblical ring to it doesn't it . . . . . I wonder?

ACCUSATIONS OF bias in the media have been to the fore this month with Tony Benn leading the way with his attack on ITN's coverage of the miners' strike.

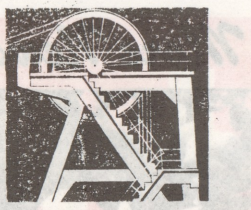
Of course we in the National Front have put up for sixteen years with atrocious reporting in all forms of the media, from the downright lies of the Daily Mail, Sun and Daily Express to the downright lies of World in Action. But even the hacks of Fleet Street and the investigative journalists of Granada have been surpassed in the art of misreporting by the coverage of the miners' dispute by the Bengali newspaper Dainik Desh.

It claims that 7 people died after extra police were drafted into trouble spots at the Nottingham coalfields. "Two people died in the firing but the other five victims, including a policeman, were stabbed to death". It says that the trouble started when Government supporters attacked a workers' colony.

It makes one wonder what claims the paper will make about the treatment of their fellow countrymen when a National Front government implements its policy of phased repatriation. Phew! It makes the mind boggle.

FOR BRITAIN'S FUTURE

Why the NF supports the Miners' Strike



IF BRITAIN IS to have secure sources of energy for the foreseeable future then the miners' strike must succeed and Ian MacGregor, Chairman of the National Coal Board should be sent packing back to his home in Florida.

Over the last 10 years as a result of deliberate policy the number of miners has been reduced from 246,000 to just 180,000 while the number of pits has been reduced from 246 to 174. Coal Board boss, Ian MacGregor, now wants to sack a further 20,000 miners and axe upto 40 more pits.

The miners' leader, Arthur Scargill, alleges that the Government and the Coal Board are eventually aiming to reduce the industry to just 100,000 men in 100 'Super Pits'. If he is right, and no official of the Coal Board has refuted his allegation, then Britain could rapidly become a massive importer of coal – a natural resource which this country has in plenty.

FAR–SIGHTED

The reason given by the Coal Board for these massive projected closures is that the pits are becoming "uneconomic". But coal, as with other energy industries, needs far-sighted planning. It can take upto 10 years for a new pit to reach maximum output. Coal mining is also a skilled and dangerous job and by driving miners out of the coal industry MacGregor is risking losing such men for ever.

Closing down pits now could wreck the industry for years to come, while whole communities are being destroyed in the process. Is it any wonder that tempers flare on the picket line when miners are facing the loss of their jobs and the destruction of their families' future because Thatcher would be happy to buy coal from Pakistan if it was cheaper.

SIGNING AWAY

If Britain's coal industry is run down so that we rely on nuclear power, limited reserves of British oil, and imported coal and oil, then the Government will have a lever to keep down miners' wages. Any future strike by miners to maintain a reasonable standard of living will be weakened by the deliberately reduced importance of the coal industry. Miners who stay at work may, today, gain the advantage of regular wages – but they are signing away the future security of themselves and their families.

The government, acting through their agent, ex-merchant banker MacGregor, are determined to wreck the coal industry. Their determination has been shown by their action in halting the flying pickets even to the extent of stopping Kent miners at the Dartford Tunnel on their way to demonstrate outside sites in the West Midlands.

The miners' fight is for their jobs and for the future of Britains coal industry. The government's hatchet men must be defeated; Britain needs a strong and healthy coal industry as part of our overall need to be self sufficient in all our energy requirements.

Not so Sweet at Snowdown!

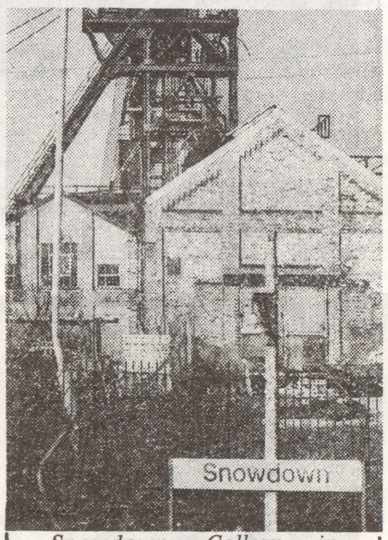
IN THREE YEARS time the Kent colleries of Betteshanger, Snowdown and Tilmanstone will close down. For they are on Ian 'the Butcher' MacGregor's hit-list. Yet these three pits produce some of the best coal in the country!

Known as sweetener – because they mix it with coal from Wales and the Midlands – it burns more economically than any other form of industrially-used coal. The Tories are, however, content to import sweetener from Australia, America and Poland, rather than support the Kent miners.

BACK OUT

Right from the start the Kent miners had to struggle to survive. When the miners were digging Tilmanstone, many investors wanted to back out because they feared that the pit was a dud. So the miners worked the pit themselves, earning next to nothing. The quality of the Kent coal soon had the investor's scurrying back.

The small mining village of Aylesham was built on the sweat and toil of the local mining folk. It now boasts a bingo club, a garage, a dozen shops and the miners club. Now MacGregor's knife and Thatcher's mad Tory imports policy will kill it.



Snowdown Collery in Kent. Imported coal from Poland threatens its existence.

Leaflets for Leiston

FOLLOWING THE successful "Armed Neutrality Now!" march held in January in Bury St. Edmunds the rapidly expanding West Suffolk Group of the National Front have stepped up their opposition to those who are treacherously ignoring our national interests.

On April 4th, 25 activists picketted an important C.N.D. meeting in the traditionally Red town of Leiston which was being addressed by pro-Moscow cleric Bruce Kent. Standing opposite the 300 strong queue who had gathered to hear a speech calling for Britain to become defenceless in the face of Soviet military expansion, the NF team unfurled the striking 'Anti-Cruise, Anti-C.N.D.' banner that led the original Bury demonstration. Waving placards and Union Jacks the NF made sure the small town knew of their presence as they vigorously chanted "Self-determination for the British Nation, Yanks out now!" As NF members moved along the queue handing out a pro-British defence leaflet the peace creeps stood stunned and bemused, so much so that only 6 refused to take the leaflet!

SYSTEMATICALLY

Inside the hall hecklers led by Group Chairman, Nick Griffin, added spice to an otherwise mind bogglingly boring gathering. Whilst Bruce Kent was beginning to wonder whether or not he needed a nuclear deterrent for the NF activists, the remainder of the team systematically leafletted the town thereby spreading our message to the British people that if they do not control their own defence, national sovereignty become mere words. Britain must not remain helpless as the C.N.D. want, nor should she be a pawn of American foreign policy – the only realistic British defence policy is: ARMED NEUTRALITY NOW!

Hitting the Headlines!

MEMBERS OF Birmingham NF's Instant Response Group again grabbed the headlines in Birmingham papers when they went along to a CND march and distributed large quantities of leaflets.

The CND march on 14th April attracted a smaller than expected turnout of just 500 people but was enlivened by the presence of about 30 National Front members. There were no arrests and the NF leaflets were well received by the vast majority of shoppers who did not seem over-impressed by the appearance of many of the CND marchers.

The NF and the N.C.C.L.

THE National Front has provoked a massive storm of controversy within the National Council for Civil Liberty. After National Front coaches were illegally halted in January by the police outside Wakefield a number of options were explored by the NF.

One of these was to see whether there was any possibility of taking legal action against the Chief Constable of West Yorkshire. Our own solicitors were asked for their advice and we also decided to ask for advice from the N.C.C.L. Consequently Joe Pearce, Joint National Activities Organiser visited the N.C.C.L. and met with a member of their legal department.

Joe Pearce. met with legal advisers of the N.C.C.L.

The advice they gave was useful and was passed onto many of our members who subsequently made complaints against the police.

ADVICE

A few weeks later Joe Pearce again asked them for advice at a time when the National Front was considering what action to take over the "dawn raids" which were carried out by Scotland Yard's Community Relations Squad on the homes of some of our members.

They then gave us advice concerning the correct procedure to take legal action against the Chief Constable of West Yorkshire and also in making complaints against the South Yorkshire Police for their appalling behaviour. They were not then prepared to take up our case against the Chief Constable "because of pressure of work" caused by the proposed Police Bill.

ALMIGHTY ROW

As a result of this advice – they took no action on our behalf – an almighty row has brewed up within the N.C.C.L. which has incidentally provided the National Front with substantial press coverage. The row came to a head on 16th April when at their Annual Conference they voted by 160 votes to 150 votes not to extend civil rights to the National Front because of its racialist policies.

Ironically the vote came as a blow to those members of the N.C.C.L. who had been trying to lose its left-wing reputation and form an all-party Commons committee. But perhaps the supreme irony is that in 1984 the body which claims to champion civil liberty should only be extended to those organisations which are approved of by Britain's ruling political establishment.

SHAME

This should come as quite a comfort to Mr Leon Brittan as he plans his next piece of political repression.

The 1983 National Front General Election manifesto contained the following provisions:

"Freedom for orderly demonstrations in public".

"Freedom of speech and publication and distribution of printed matter"

"Equal and free access to justice"

What a shame that the N.C.C.L. has voted against upholding such rights and yet accuse the National Front of being "fascist".

National Front Dining Club

ON SATURDAY 7th April the National Front Dining Club held a highly successful dinner at a top central London venue. London National Front members and guests, and a party from Birmingham, attended the function which 'regulars' agreed was the best dinner to date.

FREEMASONRY

The guest speaker was Derek Holland who gave an interesting and highly amusing talk on 'Freemasonry'. As well as telling of the somewhat bizarre rituals of the Freemasons, Derek Holland detailed some areas of the ruling establishment where masonic links form a secret and subversive web. Particular attention was paid to the masonic influence in the police force especially Scotland Yard.

After the meal many members and guests stayed until the early hours of the morning enjoying a pleasant drink in good company.

BRITISH GAS SOLD TO PAY OFF BANKS

BRITISH GAS is being lined up by the Government as the next important de-nationalisation candidate after British Telecom and British Airways.

And Tory Energy Secretary, Mr Walker, expects to complete studies in the next two months on a shortlist of options for an asset sale of British Gas.

Although not expected to be made available on the Stock market for another two years, many believe that the Tories are under great pressure to sell-off British Gas before 1986.

It is thought that British Gas – the most profitable of all State businesses – will bring about £4 billion on the stock exchange, money that is well-needed by the Tories to pay off Britain's debts to the international bankers.

However, British Gas will not have to wait until 1986 to see the effects of the Tories mad de-nationalisation policies. For it is already in the process of losing key parts of its oil business.

£160 MILLION

The long delayed sale of its 50% holding in Wytch Farm, Dorset, Britain's onshore oilfield, is due to be completed soon and will produce around £160 million for the Tory government.

And later this year, Enterprise Oil (which embraces the North Sea Oil assets of British Gas) will be coming onto the stock market and is expected to yield around £400 million.

The National Front believes that the Tories policy of selling off British Gas is sheer madness. British Gas is a vital State industry and should not be put in the hands of big Capitalist concerns. British Gas is an asset that should be shared by the whole British nation – and it should stay that way!

Drug Addiction

NF Advocates Stronger Measures

DRUG PUSHERS are turning schoolchildren as young as twelve into heroin addicts through their latest money making scheme of selling a mixture called Skag.

Skag is 40% heroin and 60% glucose, it's heated by a match and the fumes are inhaled. Once hooked schoolchildren will do anything to get money to buy the mixture. They become agressive, lie, even steal, while some girls even turn to prostitution to support their dangerous habit.

ESCALATED

This new drug craze is mainly centred around London and has escalated into a major worry for parents almost overnight. One youngster from the Astley-Cooper estate in Bermondsey explained,

"There was no problem until two years ago. Then pushers appeared outside school selling really cheap pot (marijuana). They recently changed this to skag and no one noticed the difference. Now everyone's addicted to the stuff".

OUT OF HAND

The problem of drug addiction in young people is getting out of hand. The National Front believes that the strongest measures are necessary to curtail the activities of the drug-pusher who purveys such misery and death. The National Front believes that small time pushers should be given lengthy prison sentences while those people who manufacture import and distribute lethal drugs in large quantities as a commercial enterprise should be subject to the death penalty.

Readers' Letters

Dear Sir,

In view of the increased police harassment of our members in London, perhaps your readers would be interested in an incident which occured here.

I recently distributed about 500 YNF Student leaflets around the University. A few days later, I was woken at a ridiculous time in the morning by a policeman who asked me to accompany him to the police station to speak to his inspector.

I then spent two hours being grilled, threatened and abused, (the fellow actually reverted to name-calling!). He readily admitted that the leaflets infringed no law whatsoever and that there was no evidence to even connect me with the leaflets, yet much of the interview was spent trying to ascertain whether I was a member of the National Front – something which is manifestly no concern of theirs.

The inspector demonstrated his political impartiality by calling the NF a 'pathetic little organisation!' So it appears then, that anyone distributing legal leaflets attacking both capitalism and communism is liable to be woken in the early hours of the morning by a knock on the door from the police. This is most certainly 1984.

Yours faithfully

NATIONAL FREEDOM & SOCIAL JUSTICE

- * THE ECONOMY: Create an honest, self-sufficient, debt-free economy based solely on the productive capacity of the British Worker. This will ensure conditions of full employment and price stability. Nationalise the Banks. Break-up the Multinationals. Scrap the Stock Exchange. Cancel all usurious debt. Institute a programme of interest-free loans for British families, farmers and small businessmen. We demand an Honest Economy!
- * INDUSTRY: Industry must serve the community – not make vast profits for big Bankers and huge Multinational corporations! Nationalise all vital industry. Break-up Capitalist concerns and establish British Workers' Co-operatives. Encourage – and protect – private enterprise. Root out Communist trouble-makers. Get Britain back to work!
- * UNEMPLOYMENT: Ban Foreign imports. Institute a massive programme of public works. Scrap foreign aid – spend money in Britain instead. Ban the export of capital – invest in Britain only. Ensure British ownership and control of industry, commerce, fishing and agriculture – employing Britons only! Get Britain out of the Common Market. British Jobs for British Workers!
- * Repatriate all Immigrants. Britain for the British!
- * DEFENCE: Get Britain our of NATO! Rebuild Britain's armed forces. Maintain an independent British nuclear deterrent. Yanks go home. Britons to fight for Britain only!
- * LAW & ORDER: Bring back capital punishment. Hang murderers and I.R.A. terrorists. Stop the Muggings – Stop the Riots. Restore Law & Order!
- * ENERGY: Halt the operations of Multinational oil corporations in Britain. Re-nationalise all North Sea oil operations. Oppose the importation of coal. Stop the dumping of nuclear waste in Britain. Institute an immediate and massive programme to develop new, non-polluting energy sources. Support Alternative Energy!
- * THE COMMUNITY: Create a community which will embrace all Britons – regardless of wealth or social background. Eliminate all forms of social evil. Ensure social justice for all, including the right to proper housing, a decent education, medical care and provision for old age. Fight for Social Justice!

STOP PRESS

SKREWDRIVER will not be playing any concerts apart from their Brussels gig in Belgium on Saturday May 26th. This is because they are going into studios to record an LP entitled "Hail The New Dawn" for White Noise Records. The LP will be released in July and the band will be doing a Rock Against Communism tour in early June to promote the new LP.
